POLITICAL NEWS AND NOTES

At a precinct caucus of the fourth of the fourth held last night, practically a complete ticket with the exception of candidates for the mayoralty and sheriff was endorsed. The following were endorsed for the senatorship: Dowsett, Renton and Kalepou. David Kalauokalani was endorsed for city and county clerk, Bicknell for auditor and Cathart for attorney.

The scrap between Hoogs and Farrington for a place on the supervisorial ticket was satisfactorily settled when Farrington placed the name of John Waterhouse before the caucus as a compromise. His name went through with a rush and Waterhouse was unanimously selected. Others endorsed for supervisors' from the Fourth were Waldron and Bartlett, and from the Fifth Arnold, Oscar Cox and Joe McGuire.

For representatives the following were endorsed: Watkins, Cooke, S. F. Chillingworth, G. Affonso, J. Kamanoulo and Williamson.

Governor Frear's election proclamation, issued yesterday, makes no changes in precinct boundaries and creates no new precincts in Honolulu this year, the one change recorded being a shift in the polling place at Wai-iki, the second precinct of the fourth ward which is to be moved from King and Kalakaua to Kalakaua and the John Ena road.

It was found that the extra work entailed in making the proposed changes in precinct boundaries and creating new precincts would be more than the city clerk could handle in the brief time left for its completion. It would necessitate an entire revision of the great register.

The congestion in certain precincts, which was to be eliminated by dividing some of the precincts, will be met by an increased force of clerks and inspectors, three of each to be appointed to aid in relieving this condition.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic Territorial central committee tonight, at which the date for the county and district convention will be selected.

It had been suggested to hold it on Friday of the present week, but because of other conventions, it is probable that it will not be held until some day next week.

Tossing his head covering into the ring at a late hour, but with what he believes every chance of success, Spencer Bowen, well known in connection with his work for Palama Settlement, announced his candidacy this morning for supervisor. "I am starting late," said Bowen this morning, "but I am going to take a chance any way."

Bowen, it is believed, will have a strong following in the district where his work lies, and in addition is figured to have strength in the residence districts.

ELMER L. SCHWARZBERG — I have considered the matter very carefully, and although I would be willing to do my duty as a citizen, at this time business will not permit. I wish to thank my friends for their cordial promises of support in the event of my running for the Board of Supervisors. I believe there will be good names submitted, and think it will facilitate the business of the convention to have those situated as I am withdraw their names.

FISHER HEARING

or opportunity big enough to let him in."

It would seem ridiculous of course, he thought, to give a man 640 acres. While not speaking especially of government land, he said men from the States are impressed with the large amounts of land lying idle.

"If I were asked regarding the prospects for small homesteading, I should say, no, and never. If I were going into the business I would not take less than 40 acres, and would want 100 acres of cultivated land."

"You can't plant men six acres apart and get big men. Larger areas, larger men and more money to do the work, are needed in homesteading right here, to my mind."

He told of one instance which he had seen, where the men worked on a plantation from 4 a. m. until dark, his wife tended the homestead and their produce totaled about $5 a month.

He had kept track of a number of Middle Western farmers he had met here, who later returned to the mainland because they couldn't get enough land and figured they couldn't make a living on the lots commonly given out. The money they had to spend in developing land totaled about $1,000,000.

Secretary Fisher then summed up the homesteading situation presented in the Territory.

Speaking of the actual work the American farmer would do, Dr. Wilcox said the American would do as much as any of his employees, would work long hours, work hard and break the Sabbath. "Oh, no, let's not say that," laughingly protested the Secretary. "Let's just say he continues to work Saturday afternoons."

Dr. Wilcox said the American farmer probably could handle, alone, 15 to 25 acres of pineapples. The former should not be compelled to develop his whole farm at once—it should be large enough that he could make a living on less, if necessary.

Dr. Wilcox and the Secretary discussed the irrigated land project at Grand Junction, Colo., comparing it to the pineapple land of Hawaii. The latter said the Grand Junction land, growing fruit and highly valuable, is divided into 40-acre tracts.

"Now, how about the Hawaiian and Japanese farmer?" asked Fisher. Dr. Wilcox said the Japanese are better organized than any other race here, and that they can get along on much smaller tracts than Americans. He told of the Japanese organizations that care for their own business, even to the marketing of their products.

As to the Hawaiian, he said he is at times hardly able to understand them—why they are giving away and letting themselves be superceded by the other races in the principal industries, even to the growing of their own food—the taro root. "They are far less systematic farmers than any of the other nationalities, he thought. He could not say how much land the native should be given.

If the Japanese has the financial backing, however, he believed that race would take just as much of the large-sized tracts as the American.

"No one man is responsible for the present condition," he stated. "While I have given the Governor my ideas, at the same time I feel we all, or the entire community, is responsible." He said it is largely due to a tendency to underestimate the unit that can be handled by the Japanese and the white men.

Pineapples are a good homesteaders' crop; rubber should be a fair or limited success; corn is proving quite satisfactory, the yield being of good quality and equal to the corn-belt lands in yield; cotton, where conditions are carefully searched for and care given to cultivation, is proving good. Many of our meads, however, must be imported, because they are not raised in sufficient quantity in the islands.

The fruit fly's devastation was explained to the Secretary in some detail by Dr. Wilcox.

"I do hope, Mr. Secretary, that you will get around and see some real pineapples and bananas, because we do grow them here, though our public markets do not show them. Why that is, I don't know," said Wilcox.

He gave a number of names of American farmers who have made good here, and expressed the belief that if conditions were changed to approach those of the mainland a sturdy American farming citizenry could be established that the islands would be proud of.

One of the troubles here has been chicken farming, he said, citing the fact that most of the poultry eaten here is shipped from the mainland. He said the mongOOSE is its worst enemy but thought that despite the many obstacles he admitted are present, poultry could be made a paying industry.

Jerves, in the Kihoo homesteading section of Kauai, and a number of others, he mentioned as men whom Secretary Fisher should meet and talk with on his coming visit to Kauai.

Attorney Olson then asked him how he figured 2,000 men could be put on the public lands of the Territory. Wilcox said he did not figure that they could be put on "public lands," but said he had met a man from Minnesota last year, who said he could bring down the number of families if the land were guaranteed them in fair-sized lots.

Cotton had been demonstrated to be a successful crop, though some crops had failed under various conditions while in the experimental stage. Some Japanese are raising it now successfully.

Wilcox stated that $10,000 appropriated by the Territory is being used by his department in practical experimentation.

He was then excused and the hearing closed. After consultation with the attorneys, Fisher announced the next session will probably be called at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

This ended the morning hearing. The night school classes at the Y. M. C. A. will begin on Monday evening, October 7, instead of September 30, as before announced. Students wishing to enroll may do so after September 23 at the office of the association.

THE CLARION

gate Kuhio would find the document one upon which he could run for reelection as delegate. Little doubt was entertained that Kuhio would be satisfied, for in the first place, the platform praises his work in strong terms, and in the second place, Judge Archie Mahaulu and the Rev. Stephen L. Desha, who were members of the platform committee and sort of personal representatives of the Prince thereon were in harmony with the rest of the committee. So it was believed, when the committee ended its session, that the road to harmony and to the nomination of Kuhio was plain.

Adopting a platform and nominating a candidate for delegate will end the work of the convention this afternoon. It is believed with the exception of the reorganization of the Republican territorial central committee, of which the chairman is to be Mr. Breckons. It is expected that the central committee will hold its first meeting tonight.

Owing to there being no report from the committee on platform in sight, the Republican Territorial Convention sat for only fifteen minutes this morning. It took a recess until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chairman Holstein, on calling the convention to order at 10:05 this morning, said seventy-four were present but there was nothing in the rules as to what number should constitute a quorum. It was up to the convention to say whether it should proceed to business with the number mentioned present.

Mr. Rawlins moved and it carried that the convention proceed to business and the roll be called. Secretary Widemann accordingly called the roll, a number of delegates arriving during the call. A quorum was declared present.

W. T. Rawlins stated that when recess was taken yesterday afternoon it was for the purpose of giving the committee on platform time to work. He was informed that the committee was still in session, and therefore he moved that the convention take a recess until 2 o'clock p. m.

Mackaye to the Fore. A. L. Mackaye did not see any use in rushing away while there was unfinished business other than the platform to be done. He moved that the convention take up the report of the committee on rules and dispose of the question of the mode of voting.

Mr. Rawlins replied that, even if the motion of the previous speaker was in order, it would be an injustice to delegates who were absent doing the business of the convention to decide the matter of voting in their absence. He insisted on his motion for recess being put.

The motion was put and carried without dissent, and the convention at 10:30 took a recess until 2 o'clock.

The Shafter infantrymen will start on their battalion practice hike Thursday morning. They will be in the field at about ten days.

FIELD DAY FOR FORT SHAFTER

There is to be a field day at Fort Shafter tomorrow, in which practically all the men of the third battalion, Second Infantry, will take part. A good program on foot races, field events, gymkhana stunts, and feats of skill and strength exclusively military has been arranged, and from 8 in the morning when the first race will be called, until noon, the doughboys will be combining business with pleasure.

Field days are quarterly events at army posts, according to regulations, but in spite of this, the soldiers always manage to get a lot of real fun out of them, inter-company rivalry being fanned to white heat when the time comes to pit one champion against another.

Officials selected to referee and judge the various field day sports are Major John H. Wholley, post commander, Lieutenant Homer H. Preston, and Lieutenant George Turner.

GOOD MOTION PICTURES CHANGE LIBERTY BILL

Two thoroughly interesting motion pictures were the features of last night's change of bill at the Liberty Theater, one of these, entitled "A Pueblo Legend," being the best Indian subject ever shown at this theater, while another very clear and interesting "war picture," purported to be a true incident during the famous battle of Antietam, contained some exciting and realistic "fighting." Of the new vaudeville act, the Howard Sisters, the less said the better, as their turn was not up to the usual Liberty Theater standard, and, excepting some rich wardrobes, the girls have nothing to commend them.

Mile. Mercereaux and the Kelo Brothers continue to please with the same act they presented last week.
